Middle school students will perform free concert for the community

Family-oriented event will feature a variety of music styles

LAS VEGAS – More than 500 students from Brian and Teri Cram Middle School will perform in a free community concert that will take place at The Smith Center for the Performing Arts on Thursday, May 21, beginning at 5 p.m.

“This is a fantastic event that will feature a variety of musical styles and showcase the tremendous talent of our students,” said Principal Gary Bugash. “Our band, orchestra, guitar and choir students will all perform in genres ranging from classical to jazz to pop/rock, and our bell choir will also perform.”

Bugash said the concert is perfect for families as there will be something for people of all ages. He added that student art work will be on display in the lobby during the event.

Here is a list of the lineup for the concert:

5 p.m. – Band
6 p.m. – Orchestra
7 p.m. – Guitar
8 p.m. – Choir

In addition to the concert being free, there is no charge for parking. The Smith Center for the Performing Arts is located at 361 Symphony Park, Las Vegas.
