Clark County School District upgrades its student information system *Parents and students will have real-time access to school information

LAS VEGAS – The Clark County School District (CCSD) has replaced its previous student information system with a new one that will also serve as the district's parent messaging system. Infinite Campus is a "one-stop shop" for all student and school information accessible through the Web and as a mobile app for Apple iOS or Android users.

Through Infinite Campus, students and parents will receive real-time access to information so they may better understand, monitor and participate in the educational process. Students will have access on Sept. 5 when the schools distribute student login information and parents will have access on Sept. 30 when activation keys are mailed out from CCSD.

"The ability for family members to have access to their child's student information will assist with increasing parental involvement and student accountability, leading to increased student achievement," said Director of Technology and Information Systems Services Kim Boyle.

Once it is fully implemented, Infinite Campus will provide information such as: class schedules, assignments, assessment scores, the school calendar, grades, attendance, graduation progress, credits, district and school notices, transportation and student account balances.

As the new school year gets fully under way, parents will continue to receive information from their child's school on what steps they will need to take to utilize the system.
