Palo Verde High School named International Baccalaureate World School

New program will challenge students and emphasize personal development

LAS VEGAS – Palo Verde High School has been named an International Baccalaureate (IB) World School by the International Baccalaureate Organization, and will begin offering the Diploma Years Programme. Schools that implement IB programs give students the opportunity to develop into young adults with strong critical thinking skills on a global scale, as well as the ability to tackle challenges through inquiry, action and reflection.

The Clark County School District is home to four other, award-winning IB World Schools: the International Baccalaureate School Primary Years Program at Kit Carson and Sandy Searles Miller Elementary Schools, the International Baccalaureate Middle Years Program at Roy W. Martin Middle School and the International Baccalaureate Diploma Years Programme at Valley High School.

In order for schools to offer IB programs of education, they must successfully complete a rigorous authorization process to ensure that their mission statement and philosophy align with those of the organization. To learn more about IB schools and programs, visit www.ibo.org.

Palo Verde High School is now an International Baccalaureate (IB) World School.
